

ABSTRACT

An inexpensive, highly catalytic material preferably formed by a leaching process. The catalyst comprises a finely divided metal particulate and a support. The active material may be a 5 nickel and/or nickel nickel alloy particulate having a particle size less than about 100 Angstroms. The support may be one or more metal oxides.

100-100-02632500